My dear Professor

I was not able to look at Prof. Jevons's "Principles" before Tuesday. One of them is incomplete; but the latter one, that in the form of a Separate pamphlet, is complete.

I find both Memoirs are very useful, very elementary in part & very subtle in parts.

Give me kind regards to Mrs Mills & Lucy

Believe me

Sincerely Yours

The author is evidently a Brick.

It would be a long job to translate these papers & perhaps a longer one to give a fair analysis of them. What I propose is this. If you are likely to be in London for a few days I can give me a few sittings. I will read off the Spanish rapidly into Swiftin to you pencil pad can easily note down sufficient to disembowel the subject.

Let me know whether this meets with your cordial approval. If not I will try what I can do to give you an abstract; but I should prefer the other course.

Hope you are all well & prosperous.
